Notify the Residents Association When Buying or Selling Your House in Cooper's Crossing

When buying or selling your home, don't forget to notify the Cooper's Crossing Residents Association (CCRA). Doing so ensures a smoother transition for both you and the community.

Why It Matters:

- Uphold Guidelines: The CCRA has rules for property ownership. Informing them ensures you comply and helps potential buyers understand community standards.
- Access Resources: New residents gain access to CCRA amenities like TownSq, neighbourhood events, and newsletters by staying informed through the association.
- Maintain Property Records: Keeping the CCRA updated ensures accurate and up-to-date property ownership records, which benefits both residents and the community.

Stay Connected: Keeping the CCRA updated supports transparency, maintains community bonds, and contributes to the overall vibrancy of Cooper's Crossing.
